

There is a range of values in these analyses because of the 10,000 different loci and the numbers show what percentage of children will have what alleles.